

This month we did some work regarding Black History Month. We learned about a black British hero, Ignatius Sancho, and about his influence to other black British people.

In Maths, we have been learning about using the formal methods for addition and subtraction. Children have been adding and subtracting numbers up to four digits!

October

In Writing lessons, children have been reading the book George's marvellous medicine, by Roald Dahl. They have written narratives, instructions and poems based on the story.
